

International Maritime Economic History Association Newsletter July 2014

The IMEHA launches a newsletter on maritime history

The International Maritime Economic History Association (IMEHA) is now launching a newsletter on maritime history with the aim of promoting maritime history globally and strengthening collaboration between maritime researchers. Edited by the Executive Board of IMEHA, the newsletter will feature brief news on upcoming conferences, book releases, scholarships, job-announcements etc. within the field of maritime history. The Newsletter will appear a couple of times per year.

You receive this newsletter because you attended the 6th Congress of Maritime History in Ghent, Belgium in the summer of 2012.

All members who wish to make announcements to colleagues about maritime history issues are encouraged to do so through the Newsletter. If you have news that you would like to share, please provide this by e-mail to IMEHA Secretary René Taudal Poulsen at rtp.ino@cbs.dk

The Newsletter is also available on LinkedIn, where the IMEHA hosts a group under the name of the International Maritime Economic History Association. Researchers with an interest in the maritime world are also encouraged to sign-up for free for the LinkedIn group.

If you do not wish to subscribe to the Newsletter please send an e-mail to René Taudal Poulsen and your e-mail address will be deleted from the list of subscribers.

New editorial team for the International Journal of Maritime History

Skip Fischer from Memorial University of Newfoundland has stepped down as Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Maritime History (IJMH). Skip has edited the journal since its launch in 1989, and a total of 50 volumes have appeared during the last 25 years. Skip's Newfoundland team, with Olaf U. Janzen and Maggie M. Hennessey, has stepped down with him.

A new editorial team based at the Maritime Historical Studies Centre at the University of Hull has taken over from Skip. David J. Starkey is new Editor-in-Chief and his team consists of Editor Michael Barnard, Editor Richard Gorski, Book Reviews Editor Martin Wilcox and Skip Fischer Supplement Editor.

Henceforth the IJMH will appear quarterly and both in printed and electronic form. It is now published by Sage.

Info on how to submit papers for peer review in the IJMH is available at:

Research in Maritime History to be published by Liverpool University Press

Following the editorial transition of the IJMH, Skip Fischer and Hugh Murphy will edit the Research in Maritime History (RIMH) volumes, which will henceforth be published by Liverpool University Press. Subscribers to IJMH will get a fifty per cent discount on all future RIMH publications.

7th International Congress of Maritime History

The International Maritime Economic History Association's 7th International Congress of Maritime History will be held in Perth, Western Australia from Monday, 27 June to Friday, 1 July 2016.

The theme for the conference is "Old Worlds, New Worlds? Emerging themes in maritime history".

As with previous congresses, ICMH7 has adopted a broad concept of maritime history, treating it as an interdisciplinary discipline that covers all historical periods and areas and all aspects of humankind's relationship with the sea from ancient times to the present.

If you would like to be added to the mailing list for future conference information please send an email to: ICMH7@murdoch.edu.au
